THE BEACON

February 2025 Newsletter

One of the things I cherish most in life is the time I get to spend with family, both those related by blood and those bound by faith. This past year, 2024, was particularly special for me because it was the first time I could celebrate every holiday with my family. Each moment shared felt like a true blessing, and it reminded me how essential it is to be together. I remember a specific Thanksgiving dinner where we all shared what we were thankful for, and it was a beautiful moment of connection. So often, we underestimate the warmth and joy of gathering, sharing stories, and creating memories.

But it's not just about our biological families. I'm reminded of Hebrews 10:23-25, which encourages us to unite as brothers and sisters in Christ. These verses invite us to spur one another on in love and good deeds, emphasizing the importance of making a habit of meeting together. It speaks to the deep bonds we share in our faith journey.

I completely understand how overwhelming life can be. It's easy to let time slip by between work commitments and personal struggles without prioritizing these connections. However, I urge you not to neglect meeting with each other. Life feels fuller and more meaningful when we share it with others who understand our faith and struggles. I, too, have faced these challenges, but I've found that the more I invest in my church family, the more I feel supported and connected.

As we move through this month, I challenge us all to be more intentional about spending time with our church family. Let's gather for meals, spend time in prayer, and share our burdens. It's not just about fellowship; it's about growth and support. These moments are opportunities to deepen our relationships and encourage one another in our faith.

So let's make the effort to come together, even during those busy weeks. Whether it's hosting a dinner, joining a study group, or simply reaching out for a chat, let's embrace the relationships that help us grow closer to Christ and each other. I look forward to seeing how these shared moments will enrich us and strengthen our community of believers.
